

The role of the family in child education

Uralboyeva Dilnura Khurshid qizi

Murodova Muhayyo Lazizjon qizi

Student of Termez Institute of engineering and technology

Abstract: This article deals with issues related to the family environment and parental relationships in the upbringing of children. The article can be used by future specialists who are developing their intellectual potential associated with their professional activities.

Keywords: family communication, early childhood and preschool age, formation, personal success, composition, internal and external influences, factors, parents, pedagogical and psychological knowledge, social closeness.

Ensuring the strength of the foundation of our future great state education of healthy generation by our government, spiritual and educational to bring harmonious people to adulthood by raising things to a higher level special attention is paid. Including Uzbekistan in 2017-2021 Actions on five priority areas of development of the Republic the state program on the implementation of the strategy is also pedagogical of parents priority to increase culture, duty and responsibility for the upbringing of children to be defined as tasks. Formation of a child's personality, family relationships, studying the problems of children's interaction with parents is always in the attention of the general scientific community during the development of human society was.

Pedagogy and psychology, psychology, age when educating children and from the pressing problems of the subjects of pedagogical psychology, child psychology there is no doubt that it is becoming one. Already, the future will bring the Great State to the foundation to cite a citizen of any state, first in the family and then in preschool excellent upbringing in an educational institution, full-fledged formation as a person you will have to have opportunities. In this respect, it is seen that a person's personality considered one of the main branches of continuing education in its formation as the educational institution occupies an important place.

Psychological characteristics of children of early childhood and preschool age the study of scientific, theoretical aspects is important in pedagogical education profession. Society is a set of problems of people, including children.

The development and spiritual potential of a democratic society is very diverse depends on the content of psychological, educational education given to children. Every child while living in society, he seeks a special place in it and an independent position, therefore, it has its own aspiration, competence and activity, intellectual labor displays samples. Interaction between children as well as each the role of an individual in society and the nature of his various social relationships there are a number of pedagogical disciplines that are studied, among which Psychology takes a special place. A family is a branch of society. Then the child the role of the family in their upbringing is of great importance. If the child from a young age properly raised, they will grow up to be a worthy person for society in the future. Of course to this, the role of the parent is great, his attitude towards his child, towards adults respect, the respect of the parents for each other is special of importance. If a young child lies in front of him, we know that children are very curious and ask a lot of questions when they are small If we use lies in what they ask for, they will have thisa different idea will appear. The child is slowly getting to this pointhe gets used to it and even if you don't teach him, sometimes he lies and cheats. But parents never blame themselves for this, but rather their child it rains. According to the English philosopher D.J. Locke, "a child should write what his heart desires" "It's as white as possible" with good stuff it is up to the parents to fill it with bad things as well. Parents in child rearing should have equal responsibility. A child raised only by a mother or father it can also have a wrong effect on the formation of education.

Nowadays, the number of divorces has increased sharply, and this situation affects the upbringing of children will not be affected. In a family, a single mother or father raises a child if he is raised alone, the relationships around him will cause the child to distrust his parents, forms feelings of hatred. As a result, the child is like no one he feels alone as if he doesn't understand. Hatred of all people feelings are formed. A child is surrounded by communication with adults learns more about life.

According to the Canadian psychologist A. Bandura, the child is private in the early stages success depends on his willingness to behave as others expect. She is by doing what his parents expect and what gives him satisfaction starts and moves like everyone else's. A child is an ideal person for himself he should see his parents as an ideal person, not others.

First of all, family stability is the first priority in raising a child. Our mother taught us that we are polite, disciplined, kind, tidy, adults and bring up to be respectful to the younger ones, and our father makes us responsible, educates to be persistent, strong, self-confident, and patient. The child is different respect for adults, worldview, in any situation his ability to control himself brings to light the education he received in the family. Of course parents should play the main role in the formation of child education. Your child his first teacher in life will be his parents and family. Family environment the better the child's behavior, behavior in front of others, manners is well formed. Based on this, it can be said that it is excessive if he explains it in a good way without being harsh and that's the job if he says that it is wrong, the child will not repeat it again. There are many Uzbek people they are also a people of children, and they pay special attention to the upbringing of children, education we can witness that wide opportunities have been created for it. The future family environment, sufficient pedagogical and psychological knowledge of parents are important for the generation of a generation.

References:

1. Bekmirov, T., Akhmedova, M., Melibayeva, R., Askarova, N., & Nurmatov, A. (2022). Professional pedagogy.
2. Bekmirov, T. R. (2019). Professional pedagogy of higher education as an important factor. Internauka, (44-2), 61-62.
3. Nurmatov, A., & Bekmirov, T. (2021). Razvitie creativity budushchego uchitel and process (Doctoral dissertation, Tashkent).
4. www.arxiv.uz